

June 23, 2020

Highlights

Mashable

Apple finally unveiled its latest operating system, iOS 14, on Monday during its online-only Worldwide Developer Conference (WWDC). While the final version of the OS won't be available until September, the company did unveil its new features.

Here's everything that's coming to iOS 14.

Click here to read more.

The vast majority of C-level executives in retail and restaurants companies (83%) believe that shopping and dining will never return to pre-pandemic models, according to a study.

As retail and restaurant chains develop their reopening strategies, executives may use this opportunity to cull unprofitable locations. Almost two-thirds (65%) of retailer and restaurant chains plan to reopen...

Click here to read more.

SpaceX rockets fly with software you can find on your Android phone. Programmers detail the software that makes the Falcon rockets, Dragon capsules and Starlink satellites tick. And yes, they play Kerbal Space Program.

Click here to read more.

Did You Know...

Why IBM abandoned facial recognition, and more tech news you need to know today.

Apple's synthetic group selfie patent - social distancing selfies.

Mashable

How Can You Be Sure Someone Has Real Leadership Potential? Watch for 4 Rare Signs.

Inc.

Radio looking at 'hybrid' approach to working.

Verizon 5G Home Internet now available in Detroit. It's just the sixth city to get the next-gen high-speed broadband service since its rollout started in Oct. 2018.

EU wants Facebook, Twitter to report monthly on fight against fake news. TikTok, meanwhile, is joining the EU's code of conduct.

Slack moving to a more remote work force.

Pandemic opportunity to strengthen ties with advertisers.

Massive spying campaign may have impacted Google Chrome users.

Step inside this robot-run restaurant. LG's booth at CES 2020 features a restaurant-scale demo, complete with robotic staff waiting on your table, creating your cappuccino and preparing your meal.

Jump in sales sends stocks higher, but uncertainty about economic recovery remains.

Netflix CEO donating millions to historically black institutions.

Microsoft 10 update makes some printers unable to print.

